

ABSTRACT

The invention concerns a system for transmitting data to a user-requester, via a wideband satellite transmission channel. In the system, the users requesting data are connected to a base station via a short-wave radio channel transmitting data according to the TCP/IP protocol.